There Is No Returning

"Turn Back the Universe," moaned the balladist, "and Give Me Yesterday."

That was in the sentimental days B. C. (Before Crooners). But there are almost as many people yearning today for the "good old days" as there were then.

After the World War, we yearned for the happy and simple days before the war when a dollar was a dollar, and you could travel the world without a passport. But that world was gone.

Since 1932 we have been yearning for the flush days when anybody could turn a nice profit in Goldman-Sachs and Tex Guinan honored by the endearing term "sucker" those who were making her rich.

Now, as the new European war enters its decisive last phase, there are still some who look back to a resumption of world trade on a comparatively free, private basis, just as it was before the invasion of Poland.

It is more than possible that this fond, sentimental backward gaze was one of the factors in the undoing of France. The conquered republic was constantly looking back to her triumph in the World War, and to the system of trade political and military alliances it had made then. They were gone, but France looked back.

The United States is fortunate in that it can look ahead, if it will, unafraid into this strange new world. But unfortunately nostalgia and the compelling remembrance of things past are also strong among us.

The trade war in South America forecast for "after the war" has not been waited for that war's end. Already Germany is seeking orders for steel and machine plants there, so confident of victory in the war that she is reported posting cash bonds to guarantee delivery in September and October.

Should Germany emerge from the war as economic spokesman for 400,000,000 people in Europe, Japan control the economic activities of another 400,000,000 in Asia, and Russia another 200,000,000 foreign trade is going to be something the like of which the world never saw.

Giastic pressures will be able to be directed in two and at will on one small independent country after another. Their only chance to avoid complete economic dependence will be to combine.

That makes the Hull reciprocal trade program, designed for a free world, a dead issue today. New techniques must be devised to meet new situations. They are in the making.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

From the Columns of The Star of Hope

Mrs. George Bell of Nashville spent Wednesday in Hope, a guest in the home of Mrs. A. C. Ramsey.

Mrs. Charles A. Haynes and little son, Charles, have returned from a pleasant visit with her parents at Broughton.

Rev. W. A. Lile of Fort Smith has been employed temporarily to fill the pulpit at the First Christian church in this city. He will be here for sixty days if not longer.

Mrs. Edgar Sain and little daughter, Emma Jean, will leave in the morning for a visit to Sallisaw, Oklahoma. Little Miss Evelyn Sain, who has been visiting in that city for several weeks will return with her mother and baby sister.

All the business and professional women of Hope are requested to be present at a meeting to be held at the Mayor's Office at 7:30 on Tuesday evening. Whether or not you wish to be a member of the club meet with us and give us the benefit of your presence.

What America Would Face In Time of War

There has been considerable discussion of "M Day" during the last few years, mostly critical. For the first time a complete discussion of all phases of war economy is available in "Mobilizing Civilian America" by Harold J. Tobin and Percy W. Bidwell. The experiences of 1917-1918 and the successive civil mobilization plans of 1931, 1933, 1935 and 1939 are discussed, giving people of every class a

The world has embarked on a strange wild course and during the lifetime of most people now living, there is no returning.

good idea of what they would face in time of war. Present plans even go so far as to include "after-the-war demobilization" as shown in the following brief excerpt:

Until recently no provision was made for the post-war liquidation of war controls, since the War Department interpreted the assistant secretary's mandate to extend only to war-time conditions. But as the area of planning was expanded, involving the co-operation of other government departments, demobilization problems were taken into account.

The 1939 version of the plan points out the need to deal with demobiliza-tion either by continuing the War Resources Administration into the post war period, or by creating for the purpose a new agency.

Beyond this point no plans have been developed to deal with the problems of post-war readjustments. It would seem highly advisable that immediately upon the outbreak of another war an advisory body should be set up to study the subject along the lines of the agency created in England in 1917 for a similar purpose.

It is clear, however, that business men and the public at large will have to accept the idea that war is not over until something approaching peace-time equilibrium has been re-established. Likewise as war-time controls may prove, their maintenance in part and for varying periods will have to continue for some time after actual hostilities have ceased.

WE THE WOMEN

Women Can't Even Agree on "Equality" G. O. P.
Promises

By RUTH MILLET T
The Republicans included an "equal rights" plank in their platform — and still the women aren't happy over it.

There is a large group which still believes women can eat their cake and have it, too.

They don't like the equal rights plank, which is worded: "We favor submission by congress to the states of an amendment to the Constitution providing for equal rights for men and women." The reason they don't like it is because such an amendment would automatically do away with the special legislation in effect in many states today which bears on the matter of hours, wages and working conditions of women employees.

Equality Advocates Are Realistic
The women who are jubilant over the equal rights plank seem to be more realistic. They see that women never will have a fair chance in competition against men if they are given special favors. They don't believe women can eat their cake and have it, too.

They also see that the special favors women receive are small in comparison with the penalties put on women workers in the return. Especially, they resent the tendency to discharge women workers the day they marry.
They see the grave danger that one of the bills against married women working, introduced by some states every year might be passed.

Special Privileges Turn Out Handicaps

So they are willing to take their chances as equals—to give up a few special "privileges" in order to have equality all down the line.

Mrs. Thomas Carter of Monroe is fete on Saturday

An outstanding event of the past week was the afternoon bridge given by Mrs. R. L. Pritchard and Mrs. Albert Graves at the home of the former as special compliment to Mrs. Thomas Carter of Monroe, Louisiana. For the occasion the Pritchard home was decorated with a variety of summer flowers in attractive containers. Three tables were arranged for the players, and after a number of games, high score prize was awarded to Mrs. W. J. Jones. The honoree was presented with a dainty gift.

The hostesses served a delicious salad and sherbert plate to the honoree and the following guests: Mrs. Pritchard, Mrs. Sid McMath, Mrs. R. L. Branch, Mrs. William Johnson, Mrs. W. J. Jones, Mrs. Dick Watkins, Mrs. Dick Forester, Mrs. Billy Bob Herndon, Mrs. J. W. Branch, Mrs. Dorsey McKee, and Miss Harriet Story.

Little Rock Drops Two Games Sunday

Poffenberger Bests LeFebvre in 12 Innings

LITTLE ROCK — Edged out in the twelfth inning to lose the first game, 5 to 4, and smacked down in the second, 6 to 2, the "defenseless" Little Rock Travelers dropped a double-header to the league-leading Nashville Vols at Travelers Field Sunday afternoon. The twin win swept the series for the Vols.

The overtime affair, a hot pitching bout between "Baron Boots" Poffenberger of the Vols and Left-handed Wilfred LeFebvre of the Travelers, was one of the best ball games played in Little Rock this year. Nashville made a run to tie the score, 4 to 4, in the seventh and it was a thrill-packed rest of the way.

It was disheartening the way the Travelers lost it. Moser walked and third as Boken bent out a hit to George sacrificed. Moser reached.

Jollop Races to Be Discontinued

Porter Reed Is Painfully Injured Here Sunday

Porter Reed of Hope was painfully injured Sunday when the jollop in which he was riding overturned on a curve at the Fair park. The driver of the jollop was unhurt.

Mr. Reed suffered severe cuts on the face, several broken ribs and painful bruises.

American Legion Post Commander H. O. Kyler announced Monday that due to the hot weather and discomfort of spectators the jollop races would be discontinued for a short time.

Proceeds from these races made it possible for the Hope High School Band to go to Pine Bluff, it was announced.

Mexico Voting on President July 7

Almazan vs. Camacho, Machine Candidate But No Revolt

MEXICO CITY.—(AP)—Mexico's army stands on call this week-end to stamp out trouble in Mexico's bitter presidential election, July 7, but officials insist there is not going to be any revolution. Most well-informed Mexicans are inclined to agree.

Bitterness and excitement are manifest, however.

The issues are the six-year works of President Lazaro Cardenas, barred by the constitution from succeeding himself. The "administration" candidate, Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho, nominee of the party of the Mexican Revolutionary (PRM), is pledged to carry out the Cardenas policies.

These policies have brought the expropriation of United States and other foreign oil properties, the seizure of thousands of farms from wealthy owners and their division among the poor, and strikes and other labor practices which businessmen and industrialists charged, have wrecked Mexico's economy.

Camacho's followers say he is more conservative than Cardenas. He has hinted that, if elected, he might form a coalition government.

Camacho's opponent is independent Juan Andreu Almazan, who proposes to reverse the Cardenas policies which he contends have upset national economy and encouraged Communist practices.

Camacho's followers call Almazan "the candidate of the reactionaries," capitalists and others who do not favor the humanitarian program which Cardenas has initiated.

Both candidates say they favor co-operation with the United States and Pan-American solidarity. Almazan has been more outspoken about United States co-operation.

Almazan accuses the administration of machine politics which, he says, have denied thousands of his followers their voting credentials. Camacho men say this isn't true; that even if it were, the law permits citizens to identify themselves at the polls and vote without credentials.

Cardenas, going about the country lately on his habitually frequent trips, says the people's vote will be respected. The administration insists Almazan will not be counted out. Officially, the result of the election may not be known until mid-September. The Chamber of Deputies, meeting September 1 in regular session, must name tabulating committees to check the returns.

Some 3,000,000 are expected to vote.

NEW YORK — Maxine, vocalist in an all-girl orchestra, achieves smartness this summer by reversing the rules for chic laid down by the experts.

"Instead of getting a couple of simple dresses and a flock of accessories with which to vary them, as I always have done, I decided this season to buy one set of accessories and a flock of dresses," the good-looking Maxine explains.

"The plan has worked very well so far as my appearance is concerned. And it's a time-saving plan, too. I don't have to shift the contents of one bag to another about every morning. And I don't have to wonder what goes with what when I start to dress. I know that my navy accessories go with all my dresses. They were chosen with this in mind. Besides, it's more fun to have a wide variety of dresses."

Here's the way Maxine's plan might be worked out by a girl who decides to wear black and white accessories during July, switching to all black late in August.

The Nucleus for Maxine's Devotees

A big black straw cartwheel and a smaller, more casual white straw hat; black gabardine pumps and some black and white spectator shoes; a black pouch bag and a white linen bag with removable cover; white cotton gloves and some black cotton ones with white stitching might comprise the nucleus.

Around this nucleus, the devotee of Maxine's system could add: a black and white silk print and a black sheer for hot city streets; a black shantung dress, cut on princess lines and buttoned all the way down the front; a white linen sports dress with red scarf and lapel gage; a black and white check gingham suit for town or country.

Late in August or early September, she'd discover that the all-black shoes and bag would be right with the black silk suit she's sure to buy then.

Co-education has been banned in Madrid schools, but this is not regarded as serious. Absence of football bands precludes the demand for dimple-knee drum-majors.

He has an essentially critical mind. He is one of those men far from satisfied with the world as it is today or as it was in 1929. He is one of those persons who believes in doing something about things.

More the Student Than Roosevelt

In this respect he is like Roosevelt, but his approach is different. Roosevelt is impulsive, moves in response to sudden good impulses. Willie is more the student. He is widely read, unlike the President, who is in no sense bookish. He likes not merely to read but to write.

What the impact of the present world crisis on his mind will be is pure guesswork. He will probably become still more conservative.

But the Republicans have yet to learn what their candidate will do in this turbulent world. Oddly, Joe Pew, powerful Pennsylvania oil man politician, opposed him because he thought his reform ideas were like Roosevelt's, while liberal William Allen White supported him because he thought Willie's foreign policy ideas were like Roosevelt's.

I think both these gentlemen will find themselves wrong. He is a realist. He is tough-fibered. He may make a great liberal champion. He may make a resolute master if things get worse. That remains to be seen.

He is an administrator of high order of ability. He is hard, exacting, takes advice reluctantly, tolerates no let-downs by subordinates. There will be no power behind the throne.

Republican Party in New Hands

He is a utility man. His company is a good one, but he will be plastered with the bad history and manners of every local power company.

The Democrats are certain to make an ugly point of the telegram drive for him by utility and broker interests in New York.

It is probable that Willie had nothing to do with that and it hurt him more than it helped. But in politics a man must take the blame of all supporters.

One point is of more than passing importance. The Republican party behind him is quite different from the one which nominated Hoover in 1928.

Most of the old leaders are gone. Those who were here had little real hand in the show. The depression seems to have liquidated the old guard.

In every convention there is a procession of veteran presidential candidates. With one exception all the candidates this time were up for their first tests.

All the serious candidates were young men—Dewey under 40, Willie 38, Hart 50. The chairman of the resolutions committee, Herbert Hyde, was around 40. The campaign managers of all the candidates were young men.

The party is in new hands.

Temperature of some stars is computed at 1,800,000,000 degrees, or only three degrees cooler than the convention politician who tries to make the uninstructed delegate see the light.

PEACE---SHE'S WONDERFUL

"She'll get acquainted," Rhoda started on ahead. "It's a scream — her being our chaperon! But you know my Aunt Tilly. Threw up her hands in holy horror at the idea of our going out west to your sister's to get married. Tumbled out all her Beacon Hill phobias."

"But taking Peace made everything perfectly proper?"

"Not everything. I may as well say it now, Denny, Aunt Tilly isn't keen on my marrying you, anyway."

Denny put down the heaviest suitcase. "What has she got against me?"

"Oh, come on. It isn't just you. It's all men. She says you can summer 'em and winter 'em and still get fooled. Her one exception is that precious nephew of hers, my Cousin Bertrand. She made me promise to stop off and see him in Chicago, between trains."

Denny scowled. "It's up to you, dear. Bees is planning to stage a simple wedding for us at LaJolla, but if you aren't sure— Maybe you'll get to like me on route."

Confound that old blue stocking aunt, with her fat pocketbook! He signed a porter for Rhoda's luggage, and tried to relieve Peace of her small case, which she toted gingerly and refused to relinquish. He saw her pick up a peanut from the station floor.

"Don't eat that, honey. You'll mind me, like a good girl, won't you?"

Peace hid the peanut in her pocket. "I'll mind you, but me won't mind her."

What sort of talk was that? Then he remembered what Warren had said about an I-and-me complex the child had. When she says "me won't"—look out! Regular Jekyll-and-Hyde young lady. He hoped Rhoda would understand.

THEY found their reservations and saw the luggage safely stowed away. The train didn't leave till 2 o'clock.

Denny paid no heed. He had to make that train. Why couldn't the child behave, instead of struggling so? If he put her down they'd never make it.

Then suddenly in front of him, marching towards the wrong way, he beheld a familiar blue figure swinging a tiny blue overnight case. A moment, his blood congealed. The cry at his heels engulfed him. Quickly he let go the now-sobbing youngster in his arms and made a grab for the real Peace. Why did women dress their children all alike?

The conductor yanked them aboard the train steps as the limited gilded gently forward.

Rhoda and the woman in black were on the observation platform, but Denny wasn't looking at them. He could see raised fists shaking at him through the grill of the closed gates. Had that tot found her mother? The murmur of the crowd was swallowed by the ringing clatter of the wheels.

"What an escape!" he gasped, still panting.

"You imp!" Rhoda scolded. "How dare you run away and scare us to death?"

"Postcard," Peace pouted. "To tell my Mummy me arrived safely. I won't go! Me won't go!" And she began to cry.

"Sure, honey. Don't cry," Denny tried to placate her. "She's got a lot of postcards to mail from different stops," he explained.

Rhoda, "Shall we go in? Jimmie that was a close call!"

But Denny was too perturbed to observe the way the strange woman's mouth grew into a straight line as she stared from the last-receding mob to the trio on the platform with her.

"If only I had a paper!" she muttered to herself when the door closed behind them. "It's him! I'll eat my hat! 'Close call,' huh! Her beady eyes narrowed. 'Well, anyway, they can't get off till— oh, where is that timetable?'"

She followed them into the third car. What luck! Her seat was right behind theirs. "Wonder if there's a reward?" Mrs. King's spirits rose.

Railroad Tied Up

The Missouri Pacific railroad dispatchers' office announced at Little Rock that a washout on its main line four miles north of Hope had "tied up" traffic.

The railroad said passenger train No. 8, northbound from Texas points to St. Louis, due to arrive at Little Rock at 2:30 p. m., was being held at Texarkana.

Train No. 7 southbound, is being held at Garden.

"No. 1 may be routed around by the Cotton Belt line into Texarkana unless washout has tied up the Cotton Belt," the dispatcher's office said.

Maintenance crews were rushed to the Hope area to attempt to repair the track breakage speedily.

Cotton Belt Washed Out

The Cotton Belt is holding passenger train No. 6, on route from Dallas to St. Louis, in Texarkana.

"The current where the washout occurred is so swift that we haven't been able to make an examination of the amount of damage," the dispatchers' office said.

"Our latest reports are that the current is beginning to fall. We should be able to restore service by 4 p. m."

The Cotton Belt said that due to a washout just outside of Texarkana, it would be unable to dispatch its Missouri Pacific No. 1 from Garden to Texarkana over the Cotton Belt line.

Reds Seize Wheat

BUDAPEST.—(AP)—Russians seized the only bumper crop of wheat and corn in the Balkan area by occupying Bessarabia, and the rest of the region faces a precarious food situation this winter.

Late frosts followed by torrential rains and floods reduced this year's yield of wheat and corn in Hungary, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Old Roumania by an estimated 35 per cent. Only in Bessarabia are flourishing crops reported. Harvesting throughout the rest of the Balkans is about two weeks late.

After late frosts punished the winter wheat, Balkan farmers put their hopes in spring wheat and corn only to have endless rains hamper sowing in many places. At present the crop is in danger of mildew. Fruit crops also were badly damaged by hail.

Germany had placed large contracts in Bessarabia for vegetable oil seeds. Prevailing crop conditions are expected to result in a serious food situation in the Balkans, especially if exports to Germany must be continued on the old level. Most of the Balkan countries now are using only dark bread.

Value of Dome Increases With Age

DENVER.—(AP)—Officials who spent $4,000 to cover the dome of Colorado's state capitol building with gold leaf 32 years ago were criticized for "extravagance" but—

The gold, approximately 200 ounces of it, was worth $20 an ounce when placed on the dome, or a total of about $4,000. Now gold is $35 an ounce and so the dome's market value is about $7,000.

It's a book profit, however, for much of the gold leaf has "eroded" or been scratched away by boots of workmen. But the gold never tarnished and seems as bright today as when it was put in place.

sumer of gas in the state.

The court said, the Arkansas Louisiana's service to industrial plants had been "adequate and satisfactory with the exception of the price paid for gas which, in each instance, is substantially higher than the rate of 10 cents offered by the applicant."

The Court's Duty

"If the department's order is supported by substantial evidence, free from fraud, and not arbitrary, it is the duty of the courts to permit it to stand, even though they might disagree with the wisdom of the order," the tribunal said. "In such case, our judgment will not be substituted for that of the department."

"The only other point in the case is whether the order of the department is supported by substantial evidence, and we think it is."

Justice McHaffey said the municipal light plant at Hope would save $6,000 and Hope Brick Works more than $10,000 annually under the reduced rate.

"We think it proper to observe that the transportation and distribution of natural gas is a business that should not be immune to competition, under certain conditions, rather than a regulated monopoly," he continued.

Element of Cost

"The element of cost, although not necessarily of itself sufficient, is a very important one for the department to consider in determining whether public convenience and necessity will be served. Having done so on this or other grounds we cannot say there is no substantial evidence to support the order."

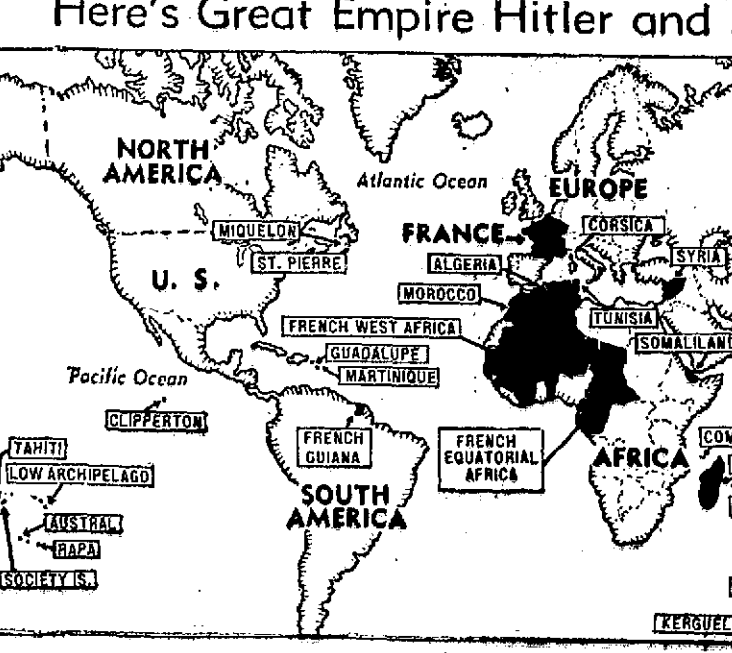

"The trial court (circuit) was of the opinion that to permit this competition might adversely affect 44,000 domestic consumers in Arkansas. We do not think this assumption is justified because the appellee (Arkansas Louisiana) offered to meet the rate."

President W. A. Delaney, Jr., said the Louisiana Nevada company would seek to expand its operations to serve residential consumers in DeQueen, Horatio, Locksburg, Gilham, Bradley, Fulton, McNabb and Saratoga.

The first four of these towns do not have natural gas service now. The Arkansas Louisiana serves others.

Ready for an afternoon party, Maxine wears a two-piece silk print—and the same set of fine navy blue accessories.
